

Slowing Traffic for Safer Streets

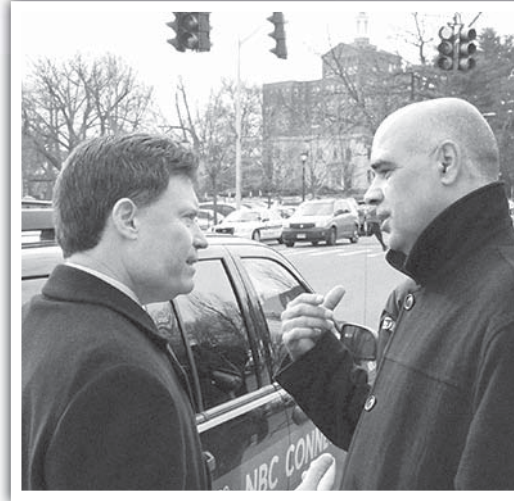

Speeding is a serious problem in Hartford. I have heard from many of you about drivers who speed or fail to stop at red lights and stop signs. These drivers place all of us at risk. The following are efforts I am working on to address these problems.

Speed Tables for Neighborhoods

I have heard more from Hartford residents about the problem of speeding than any other issue. I have secured $250,000 in state funding to place speed tables at locations where speeding is a particular problem in our neighborhoods. Watch for the installation of these speed tables this spring in your neighborhood.

Red Light Cameras for Dangerous Intersections

I am working with Mayor Segarra to pass red light camera legislation this session. The cameras would be used strictly to enforce traffic regulations at some of our most dangerous intersections. Red light runners and speeders have caused multiple traffic deaths in our city; on average, 61 people die in accidents at Connecticut intersections each year.

Making Hartford Streets Safer

I am working closely with Mayor Segarra to make Hartford streets safer. This is a priority issue for me—read more about it on the other side of this card.

Report Neighborhood Problems with SeeClickFix.com

If you notice a problem around town—like a pothole or a burnt-out streetlight—go online to SeeClickFix.com and report it! SeeClickFix includes a map of Hartford where you can click the precise spot where that graffiti or broken parking meter is located. You can also see the issues others have already tagged and vote to draw more attention to them. Repair crews will take notice!
